

Is Obama Admitting Incompetence or is He Playing Us?

To quote from the Weekly Standard:

At a DNC fundraiser today, President Barack Obama voiced a concern many Americans might now have. "[T]here's a sense possibly that the world is spinning so fast and nobody is able to control it," Obama told Democrats at the White Street Restaurant in New York, New York.

Here were my thoughts when I read the article:

For a long time I have been convinced Obama is arrogant, but incompetent. That is not to say he has not had an agenda. He has done much to destroy our nation, its standards, statue, values, laws, and principles – the very fabric that made our nation great. But he could not have done this without the sycophant support of the Press, the Progressives, the Democrats and the Political Correct Crowd, all of whom are overridden with misguided, self-inflicted guilt for the success of the United States of America. Obama has been shrewd enough to take advantage of every one of those ancillary fools.

When Obama makes the above statement I ask why did he? Does he know inside himself he is not capable of filling the duties as President? Has he known all along, or perhaps suddenly realized, that he is not capable of dealing with the Putins and ISISs of the world? Does he suddenly realize that so many things are going wrong because of his agenda? Or does he simply not care? Or is something else going on? Is he perhaps trying to panic those around him into a state of even more support for him and his intentions?

But none of these scenarios matter. What matters is the utter lack of any leadership in any office in Washington DC. Think about our circumstance: We have the threats of Ebola, ISIS, Enterovirus D68 or some more dangerous derivative, illegal aliens, and drug cartels – all coming across a very porous border or by commercial plane. And at no point in time of any of these crises has there been an effort on the part of Obama or Congress to take the bull by the horn and remedy the problems. It is as though our “Leadership” in the Federal Government consists of a flock of Henny Penny’s (A. K. A. Chicken Little’s) who squawk as they run helter skelter and then suddenly morphs in to ostriches with their heads in the ground.

Something akin to this disorder in the world seems to happen from time to time. And each time something ensues that is as if nature is trying to cleanse itself and begin anew. I do not have confidence that our “Leadership” has either the wisdom or courage to stem the flow of matters. I do not have confidence that We the People have any influence or wisdom and courage to force “Leadership” to stem the flow.

Perhaps all of this is simply the way of things. Perhaps we are satisfied to be played like the strings on a harp, a guitar, or an oud until the party is over. What do you think
